

Abstract

An implantable prosthesis for repairing hernia defects comprises a basic structure (6) which is provided with concertina pleats (3) that are parallel to 5 a direction of extension. They are fixed by a fixing arrangement so that the basic structure (6) is approximately hourglass-shaped in a plan view.